Second Chance Pass is a beautiful, rugged mountain pass located in the heart of the Virgin River Gorge. The pass is a popular destination for hikers, mountain bikers, and off-road vehicle enthusiasts, and offers stunning views of the surrounding desert landscape.

The pass is named for the fact that it offers a second chance to those who have failed to summit the nearby Grafton Mesa. Grafton Mesa is a popular hiking destination, but the trail to the summit is steep and challenging. Many hikers who attempt to summit the mesa find themselves unable to continue, and are forced to turn back. Second Chance Pass offers a less challenging route to the summit of Grafton Mesa, and gives hikers a second chance to reach their goal.

The pass is also a popular destination for mountain bikers and off-road vehicle enthusiasts. The pass offers a challenging and rugged ride, with steep climbs and descents, and loose, rocky terrain. The pass is also home to a number of obstacles, such as boulders and logs, that make the ride even more challenging.
