A Chance Encounter in the Shadows of History

Men's Victorian Fashion

Dickens Costume 1840-1860

Cravat
Common cravat neckties in small prints, plaids, or stripes were popular.

Top Hat
Tailor made silk top hat or wool felt top hat with matching band.

Coat
Dark, ornate, or plain frock coat as a formal dinner jacket. The traditional color of frock coats were black or dark brown.

Vest
Single or double breasted vest in a variety of styles or solid color.

High Waist Pants
High waist for dress suits in dark, rich, deep colors. The waistband was stiff and the trousers were pleated.

Boots
Black or brown lace up boots with low heel and polished toe.

Men's early to mid Victorian clothing was a clash of colors and patterns in day wear. Narrow leg, high waist pants were often bold plaids and stripes against a paisley vest and frock. The more proper gentleman kept his colors simple and his silhouet tightly fitted. Tall lace up boots complement the overall slim silhouette. A top hat added height while a walking cane was both a fine accessory and a weapon. A man would never leave his home without a pair of clean gloves, his pocket watch or shirt collar freshly pressed. While there are some Victorian reproduction clothing available today you can also use well chosen modern clothes to create an affordable Victorian look. Learn more at:
